Featured Project

As a result of a 15 feet high historic retaining wall that could not be disturbed, Whitestone developed an economical foundation solution involving two foundation systems for this student housing center in Newark, NJ. Whitestone also conducted environmental and geotechnical due diligence investigations in support of the proposed redevelopment project and managed environmental remediation efforts for this Brownfield redevelopment. Whitestone LSRPs Go 4 for 4

Congratulations to Jeff Bauer, Keith D'Ambrosio, Chris Seib, and Tom Uzzo who passed the LSRP exam (administered in NJ for the first time on May 14, 2012).

New Jersey LSRP Program in Full Effect

New Jersey's Licensed Site Remediation Professional program has been in full effect since May 7, 2012 yet thousands of contaminated sites throughout the state do not have a retained LSRP.

Geotechnical Investigations

Your site acquisition and development investments deserve a thorough understanding of subsurface conditions in order to ensure that construction gets out of the ground within budget and on time without costly "soils issues."
